Teacher Professional Conduct Review Process

St. Paul's High School encourages that concerns about a teacher or school clinician will normally be raised first through the school's established communication and resolution pathways, where appropriate, so the matter can be understood in context and addressed promptly and fairly.

Manitoba Education and Early Childhood Learning has established an independent process for concerns related to professional conduct or competence. As required, the school includes the following notice:

Manitoba Education and Early Childhood Learning has created the Office of the Commissioner of Teacher Professional Conduct to review concerns about the professional conduct or competence of certified teachers and school clinicians. Find out more at: www.edu.gov.mb.ca/k12/commissioner/index.html

Individuals may also consult the Public Complaint Form for additional information about the Commissioner's role and process. In serious situations, concerns may also need to be reported directly to appropriate authorities in accordance with the law.
